Just heard that barring any major breaking news, CNN will air this story tonight on the Anderson Cooper show between 7 and 8 p.m. (Wolf is actually the guest host tonight).
They had said earlier it would be in the five to seven minute range – and there would be a chat between the host and Drew , the reporter, after the piece. A written version would be posted tomorrow they said.
I told them I certainly hope and expect that they did a fair job depicting all the good aspects of the program. They said the Governor gets a lot of air time.
