WHEREAS, Several religious groups, including members of the Jewish faith, oppose autopsy for religious reasons; and

WHEREAS, Several states have adopted laws that protect those sincerely held religious beliefs and forbid autopsies over the religious objection of the decedent's family or friends except in cases of compelling public necessity; and

WHEREAS, The Illinois Coroners and Medical Examiners Association has voluntarily decided to adopt a protocol that outlines how they shall ensure religious and cultural sensitivity for the deceased and their families that includes the following:

1. If the coroner or medical examiner has reason to believe that such action would be contrary to the religious beliefs of the decedent, dissection or autopsy shall not be performed, nor a collection of toxicology samples drawn;

2. In cases of presumed or actual objection and the coroner or medical examiner concludes that the autopsy is a compelling public necessity, the coroner or medical examiner shall wait 48 hours before performing the autopsy; During this period the coroner or medical examiner shall exercise due diligence to contact the deceased person's relatives;
(3) In cases of compelling public necessity, the autopsy shall be performed in the least intrusive manner possible respecting religious traditions, and all blood, organs, parts, and tissues shall be released as soon as possible to the person who has custody of the body for burial;

(4) After an inquest, the coroner shall make reasonable effort to deliver any tissue samples, blood, organs, or other parts of the decedent that were removed to the person responsible for the burial of the decedent as soon as is practicable; The person responsible for the burial shall remain in contact with the coroner or medical examiner performing the inquest in order to ensure that this occurs;

(5) In cases where a coroner or medical examiner determines that an infant died of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, the coroner or medical examiner shall not take tissue samples for research purposes if the parents object on grounds that such procedure conflicts with their religious beliefs; and

(6) A presentation by Agudath Israel on religious sensitivity to death and autopsy in Judaism shall be incorporated into the continuing education classes of the Illinois Coroners and Medical Examiners employees; therefore, be it
