13

WHEREAS, Ben Cheek often held a second job in addition to his full-time military service; he was a bouncer at the base NCO Club, bagged groceries at the commissary, and worked at Eisner's grocery store in Rantoul, serving first in the meat department and then the produce department; he became the grocery manager and finally the manager of the entire store; and

14

16

17

18

19

20

WHEREAS, Ben Creek retired from the Air Force and worked as a civil servant, where he was in charge of coordinating many training manuals for all of the Armed Forces; he also worked

21

1 one more part-time stint as a bus driver, this time for Rantoul
2 Township High School; and

3 WHEREAS, Ben Cheek spent time as a firefighter; during
4 Fire Prevention Week, he would visit his children's schools
5 and give them and their classmates rides on his fire truck; and

6 WHEREAS, Ben Cheek served on the Rantoul City Schools
7 Board of Education for 17 years; and

8 WHEREAS, Ben Cheek was not political, but in 1968, when 9 Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated, the local 10 television station in Minot announced it would not carry his 11 funeral; he and his wife helped organize a protest and letter
12 writing campaign that led the station to reverse that decision
13 and honor Dr. King with live coverage of his services; and

14 WHEREAS, Ben Cheek and his wife volunteered as chaperones
15 at school dances, and he attended as many of his
16 grandchildren's events and activities as possible; he loved
17 giving them creative pet names; he was a devoted and
