6 (220 ILCS 20/2.03) (from Ch. 111 2/3, par. 552.3)

7 Sec. 2.03. "Transportation of gas" means the gathering, 8 transmission, or distribution of gas by pipeline or its 9 storage, within this State and not subject to the jurisdiction
10 of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission under the Natural 11 Gas Act, except that it includes the transmission of gas
12 through pipeline facilities within this State that transport
13 gas from an interstate gas pipeline to a direct sales customer
14 within this State purchasing gas for its own consumption.
15 "Transportation of gas" also includes the conveyance of gas
16 from a gas main through the primary fuel line to the outside 17 wall of residential premises. If the gas meter is placed within 18 3 feet of the structure, the utility's responsibility shall end

21 Section, the conveyance of gas by pipeline within, on, over, 22 under, or across any highway, as that term is defined in
