

AN ACT concerning State government.

WHEREAS, Many of the local governmental units in the State of Illinois were established under provisions of the Illinois Constitution of 1870; and

WHEREAS, There have been rapid changes in the population of Illinois in numbers, in concentration, and in movement, as well as vast economic, social, and technological changes, that strain the ability of Illinois local governments adequately to furnish necessary services; and

WHEREAS, Illinois local governments were conceived to serve a rural society; in areas not experiencing the impact of modern changes, they may be adequate, but in areas of great change, notably the urban areas, they are not sufficiently flexible, do not have adequate powers and financing, and are not responsive to present-day needs in transportation, health, water supply, water pollution, air pollution, recreation, disposal of sewage, and disposal of refuse; and

WHEREAS, The inadequacies in Illinois local governments have resulted in the creation of numerous functional local governments all competing for financial and jurisdictional support from the same area; therefore,
