Senator Ellman, thank you for the opportunity to provide my perspective. As a seasoned precinct committee person – the person in the trenches as it were – I would like to see some attention to this level of detail paid!! When we are trying to get the correct information into voter's hand but our precincts are a combination of more than one congressional district, it is extremely challenging! Often times we do provide incorrect materials to a voters house only because it is so convoluted.

Another suggestion I have is drawing these districts in areas that geographically connected – currently many precincts are not connected in anyway and are not walkable by a single person, they require getting in a car and driving around a highway or a river or an electrical line or something.

I am not sure if it is possible to start at the level of a PC and work your way up to the congressional offices or not but that is my 2 cents from a PC perspective.

Thank you!
